

JT Huang completed his Bachelor of Architecture degree at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, NY in 1998. Since joining Acheson Doyle Partners Architects in 2010, he has acquired strong experience on residential and hospitality projects, and has also worked for institutional clients such as The National Park Service and The Archdiocese of New York. JT serves as senior project architect for ADP's work with the New York City Department of Design and Construction. JT has very broad experience with design, CAD drafting, zoning analysis, space planning, detailing, historic restoration, construction documents and administration.

Selected Projects:

Tudor City Woodstock Tower: Exterior LL11 repair and Window Replacement Master Plan, New York, NY
515 E.72 Street Condominium: Conversion of a 41-story residential building into condominiums, New York, NY

Sherry Netherland Hotel: Private apartment renovations and consulting to landmark hotel, New York, NY
Hotel Wolcott: Existing Condition, Zoning and Programmatic Best-Use Report for landmark hotel, New York, NY

Jesuit Retirement Residence: Alterations to Murray-Weigel Hall Fordham University, Bronx, NY

Project Hospitality: Construction Administration 25,000 sf Transitional Residence

Congregation Beth Elohim: Restoration of Sanctuary and renovations to Community House, New York, NY

Leo House Hotel: Master plan, design and construction for not-for-profit hotel, New York, NY

National Park Service: Historic Restoration of Ft. Wadsworth, Gateway National Park, Multiple Locations

Morgan General Mail Facility: Zoning floor area consulting for possible development scope, New York, NY

St. Matthew & St. Timothy Church: Preliminary design, schematic design and programming, New York, NY

Education:

Bachelor of Architecture, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, NY 1998